

SUES Required Courses:

- Writing (4 Courses)
 - Freshman Writing Course
 - Continuation of current requirement
 - Second Year Writing Course
 - Continue to develop first year skills
 - Expand communication skills
 - Writing in the major
 - Advanced communication skills
 - Communicate advanced disciplines ideas to the general public
 - Optional fourth course
- Language (1 year or competency equivalent)
 - Retain existing 1 year requirement
 - Develop new incentives to pursue advanced instruction
- Aesthetic and interpretive inquiry (2 courses)
 - music, literature, philosophy, art and art history, and drama
 - focus on the interpretation of cultural practices and products, rather than analysis of the social structures from which they emerge
- Social inquiry (2 courses)
 - history and the social sciences
- Scientific analysis (2 courses)
 - traditional introductory courses in scientific disciplines.
 - newly designed courses specifically intended for non-scientists.
 - many students will choose to take courses in two different scientific fields,
- Formal and quantitative reasoning (2 courses)
 - Two courses (one each in Formal Reasoning and Quantitative Reasoning)
 - courses in mathematics or computer science,
 - philosophy, statistics, or symbolic systems.
- Engaging difference (1 course)
- Moral and ethical reasoning (1 course)
 - Courses certified as completing the existing Ethical Reasoning requirement would fulfill this requirement,
 - philosophy, political philosophy, and religious studies that are not currently certified
- Creative expression (1 course)
 - Express and develop their capacities for originality and creative self expression
 - Fields such as art, music, creative writing, dance, drama, or Film.
 - Fields as product design and architecture.